Now for the important stuff. The mid-term elections are upon us. I urge you to take nothing for granted. You have the right - the bought and paid for by the blood of countless patriots - right to vote. Use it. Urge friends and family to exercise their right to vote. At this point, ballots, not bullets, will decide the immediate future of our country. We cannot settle for a red wave. If it is a red wave, it must be of tsunami like proportions. Our country cannot afford one step back. Socialism? Communism? Americans, real Americans, have fought and died all over the world to suppress and eliminate these evils. I am old enough to remember that having these terms connected to you was the equivalent of political suicide. Now? Now, it's a platform on which to campaign.
